- Migratory Bird Stamp?*

YES! Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamps have helped fund the acquisition of over 5.5 million acres of habitat for the Refuge System. These wetlands, woodlands, and grasslands are almost always open to birding, and they provide essential habitat for waterfowl, shorebirds, raptors, songbirds, and many more species.

Buying a Stamp is a simple, inexpensive, and effective way to support important bird habitat and our National Wildlife Refuge System. The Migratory Bird Stamp also serves as a free pass to all our National Wildlife Refuges that may charge for entry.

Note:

Sizes can be adjusted somewhat in each case. Background color – currently a nice yellow – may be changeable. The PSA sentence on the bottom can also be altered to identify a specific sponsoring organization. For help with designing a variant, contact Devin Lang (CHS_Yearbook_2014@yahoo.com). An example of one variation is one that has appeared in The Birding Wire:
